

Mark A. Mitchell, Ph.D.
Assistant Inspector General for Evaluations

In December of 2004, Dr. Mark Mitchell was appointed to the position of Assistant Inspector General for Evaluations. He has served as a Program Analyst in the Office of Inspector General at the Corporation for National and Community Service since September of 2003.

Before assuming his position at the Corporation, Dr. Mitchell was an on-site project manager for a national technology contractor at the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). In that position, Dr. Mitchell worked with national program offices to develop on-line geographic systems to plan and evaluate HUD programs. Prior to that, he served as a regional Consolidated Plan Specialist for HUD, training state and local governments to assess the need for community development projects and develop coordinated strategies to address those needs in partnership with non-profit community development agencies.

Prior to his work at HUD, Dr. Mitchell worked in Texas for over ten years at the local government and non-profit level in the planning and administration of housing, economic development and community development programs. He completed a Masters of Public Affairs from the University of Texas at Dallas in 1994 and completed the requirements for his Ph.D. in Political Economy at the same university in 2004.
